Farmers Market, July 9-Oct. 8 Saturdays

Located in the heart of Alamosa's downtown, the farmer's market includes local growers, certified dairy producers and meat producers. The market has also served as an incubator opportunity for local entrepreneurs who produce baked goods, jams, jellies and a variety of crafts. In addition to the great local produce, the market features cultural events, cooking demos and activities for the whole family. The market runs each Saturday, 8 a.m.-1:30 p.m. at the corner of 6th and State in downtown Alamosa. Info: www.alamosafarmersmarket.org

Bike2Build, July 9

Bike 2 Build is a benefit bike ride for Habitat for Humanity designed so riders can experience breathtaking Colorado views and the great expanse of the San Luis Valley, one of the world's largest and highest alpine valleys. This year, the event will be in person. There will be a Metric Century route and a 30-mile route. Habitat for Humanity brings people together to build homes, communities and hope. Rollin' Deep Car Show, June 19

Head on out to Cole Park on Fathers' Day for the annual Rollin' Deep Lowrider & Custom Carshow — open to all vehicles: all makes, models, and years of cars and motorcycles, along with some custom bicycles. Enjoy live music, vendors and kids activities while checking out the great entries. Info: 719-580-3939, 719-274-5224

Independence Day, July 4

Celebrate our nation's independence in Alamosa, July 4. Begin the day with the Kiwanis pancake breakfast in the San Luis Valley Federal parking lot, then make your way to Main Street for the annual parade. At dusk don't miss the gala fireworks at the fairgrounds. Info: www.alamosa.org

Sundays at Six, begins June 26

One of the mainstays of the Alamosa Live Music Association is its free summer concert series in Cole Park, known locally as Sundays at Six. Sundays at Six started a number of years back and has grown into a hallmark of the San Luis Valley summertime season. During the most beautiful months in the Valley, the community is exposed to all kinds of music, performed by everyone from the neighbor down the street to nationally recognized touring musicians, with a different genre represented each week. Info: www.almaonline.org

Beat the Heat BBQ, Brews & Chili, Aug. 5-6

Come check out the San Luis Valley Beat the Heat BBQ, a sanctioned Kansas City Barbecue Society and

Rocky Mountain Barbecue Association State Championship event, at Alamosa's Cole Park. Enjoy BBQ, beer, and sample a little green chili to wake up your taste buds. Live music all day Saturday with kids' games and family entertainment. Cookers will compete for prizes in chicken, pork, ribs and brisket, all judged by certified Kansas City BBQ Society judges. Events for the public include a kid's Q challenge, steak cook-off, people's choice taste testing, a hogwaller mud run and a cornhole tournament. Info: www.slvbeattheheat.com

Early Iron Festival, Labor Day Weekend, Sept. 2-5

The Early Iron Festival is a premier event of Alamosa and the surrounding area, bringing visitors from Colorado, New Mexico, Texas, Arizona, Utah, Kansas and beyond to Cole Park. Alamosa is a true "Hot Rod Town" with the city council setting aside "Early Iron Day" the Saturday before Labor Day. It now draws well over 600 rodders and streetcar enthusiasts.

This is a three-day event starting on Friday and ending on Sunday, jam-packed with parties, music, vintage nitro, pinstriping, slow cruising and of course, awesome hot rod displays!

On Saturday, the park opens at 7 a.m. with registration lasting until 11 a.m. Show and Shine will run from 10 a.m.-4:30 p.m. A crowd favorite, the nitro car burn will take place at 10 a.m., followed by a panel jam auction at 11.

Show and Shine winners will be announced from 3 to 4 p.m., then dinner will be served at the Knights of Columbus, with a door prize, drawings and presentation of the Rodder's Choice and Lady's Choice awards

Always popular, vehicles will participate in a slow cruise through downtown Alamosa, "dragging Main" and showing off for spectators, families and people looking for fun.

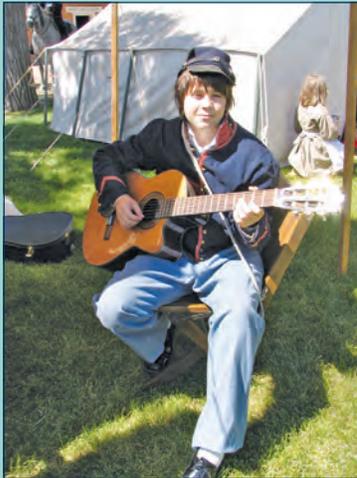

On Sunday, a Rodder Church Service will be at 8:15 a.m., with a poker run planned to follow. Info: www.earlyironclub.com

Alamosa Arts Festival, September 16-17

Take a walk through downtown Alamosa and see artists of various different two and three-dimensional mediums creating one-of-a-kind work, much of which will be displayed for a tour downtown. An annual celebration featuring local musicians and performers will also take place at Society Hall. Info: www.cityofalamosa.org/public-art and www.societyhall.org

Memorial Day weekend. Throughout the weekend the Fort Garland Memorial Regiment and the Artillery Company of New Mexico will present activities and displays that depict 19th century garrison life at Fort Garland. Demonstrations 9 a.m. to 5 p.m. Info: www.museumtrail.org/fort-garland-museum.html

Cumbres & Toltec Scenic Railroad opening day, June 11

Antonito celebrates the beginning of the scenic railroad's season at the depot with music, ceremonies and family fun

beginning on June 11 — with bells clanging, whistles blowing, and surrounded by clouds of steam. Free refreshments, ceremonial festivities with the traditional blessing of the train, music, statements and introductions of state and local dignitaries before passengers embark on the ride of a lifetime.

The TSA has mandated that all passengers wear masks. Masks will be required regardless of the current State or Local Health Department regulations. If you or someone in your party is unable to wear a mask, we, unfortunately, will not be able to accommodate you because of this regulation.

Sanford Pioneer Days, July 14

This small town celebrates its history, rooted deeply in the lives of the pioneers who settled here between 1880 and 1890. Mormon pioneers of Sanford came from Utah in covered wagons, first living in Ephraim and Richfield until Sanford was located.

Manassa Pioneer Days, July 15-16

The Pioneer Days Celebration started with its namesake—the pioneers. From Spanish explorers in the late 1500s, to Mormon pioneers in the 1800s, Manassa's settlement history rings true to the Southwestern spirit of intellectual innovation, spiritual perseverance and the ceaselessly American trait of discovery. Runoff Runoff, June 4

Throughout the summer, racers can choose to ride ATVs, run alone or run with a donkey. The Runoff Runoff includes three races (6.6K, half-marathon and marathon) with a festive finish line in the heart of Creede. Following the flow of the Rio Grande, the race raises money to support river preservation projects. Following the races there is a fun celebration for the whole family, complete with live music, local beer and food. Info: www.runoffrunoff.com

Creede Donkey Dash, June 11

The Annual Creede Donkey Dash races into Main Street at 10 a.m. on Saturday. The course covers about 10 miles through Creede’s Historic Mining District; teams consist of a burro and runner. Also, don’t miss the mini donkey race, street festival and live music. Info: www.creede.com

Independence Day celebration, July 3-4

The Fourth of July festival and parade runs Sunday and Monday in Creede. The parade is at 9 a.m. on July 4. Street vendors will offer food and crafts, and a beer garden will pour brain-soothers throughout the two-day event. Unless it’s too dry and dangerous, a fireworks display will wrap up Independence Day. Visitors get to see mining competitions, rodeo events and the Days of ’92 Mining Championship. Since the 1970s, the Days of ’92 has drawn professional mineworkers from the southwestern United States to battle for the “Best Overall Miner of the Year” award. Info: www.creede.com

Woodcarvers Rendezvous, July 9-15

Woodworkers will congregate in Creede for the 31st Annual Woodcarvers Rendezvous where they can sell their wares or even learn a new skill. Each year offers new demonstrations, classes and contests. Beginners can pick up their first woodworking tools, while those with more experience can find just about anything they’re looking for. Info: www.creedewoodcarvers.com

Rock and Mineral Show, Aug. 5-7

Over 40 exhibitors will be showing and selling a fascinating array of gems, geodes, fossils, silver ore, turquoise nuggets, Australian opals, beads, jewelry and stone carvings at Creede’s Underground Mining Museum. Plus all types of rock and mineral specimens from around the world will intrigue viewers, buyers, collectors and rockhounds of all ages. Info: www.creederocks.com

Creede Gravity Derby, Aug. 13

Join the annual free-style soapbox derby down Main Street. The spectacle features more than 15 participants from all age groups. Only 3 rules: rides must steer, brake, and stop! (well, and no motors or pedal power - let gravity do the work!). Pre-register at the Creede Visitor Center, with Parks and Rec, or on the day of the race at the north end of Main Street.

South Fork Kids Fishing Clinic, June 18

Located about 12 miles outside of South Fork, Tucker Ponds hosts the annual Kids Fishing Clinic sponsored by several local businesses, the Colorado Department of Wildlife and the South Fork Visitors Center. Children get a chance to learn the basics of fishing, knot tying, local fish species and Colorado fishing regulations. They are then given the opportunity to be the first to fish in Tucker Ponds right after being stocked for the summer months. The event begins at 8 a.m. and lunch is provided. Info: 719-873-5512, www.southfork.org.

Logger Days, July 15-17

South Fork will celebrate the area's culture and history during the Annual Logger Days Festival. Events and competitions taking place throughout the weekend celebrate the time-honored tradition of logging, an initial economic draw for the area. Crowd-favorite competitions include chainsaw carving, the ax throw, the two-man crosscut and a relay-type race with team members pulled from the audience. The parking lot and community center are packed with children activities, various vendors and food trucks. The event is free and open to the public. Info: 719-873-5512, www.southfork.org.

Ski Hi Stampede, July 20-24

The largest special event in the San Luis Valley is Ski Hi Stampede in Monte Vista. The Ski Hi Stampede is Colorado's oldest professional rodeo.

It was founded in the late 1800s for local cowpoke to compare skills they learned while riding the range. Today, it's an official Professional Rodeo Cowboys Association (PRCA) event, where the pros accumulate points towards competing in the National Pro Rodeo in Las Vegas, Nev.

However, this four-day event is not only a rodeo. There are several other fun, big events to participate in. There is a parade on Saturday, a chuck wagon dinner on Thursday night right before the concert which features country western recording artist Dwight Yoakam, dances, concerts and a carnival at Ski Hi Park. New for 2022, the event will be celebrating their first year in a brand-new facility. Info: www.skihistampede.com

Town of Crestone Annual 4th of July Celebration, July 4

The Fourth of July celebration is participatory with events that everyone can join. The central event is a parade through the downtown area, with a "Creation Station" for children to decorate themselves and their bikes prior to the parade. Anyone may enter the parade by reporting to the lineup at 11 am. Other features include a 5K Run, Walk or Crawl Race, festivities in the park, music and entertainment, arts and crafts and games. Info: 719-256-4313.

Hollyhock Festival, July 30

The Annual Hollyhock Festival is July 30. The Chamber is hoping this date will allow for gathering in the Community Building and touring gardens in person. The hours for this event will be 10 a.m. until 3 p.m. The hollyhock is the official flower for the town of Saguache. Alcea rosea, Hollyhock, was one of the earliest plants brought to the New World. Originally from Asia, the plant's hardiness, drought tolerance, and soil adaptability supported its cultivation throughout the Middle East, Europe, and North American Continent. Info: 719-849-0240, www.saguachechamber.org

Saguache Arts Walk, July 30

Held in downtown Saguache, local artists will display their work through the downtown area in businesses, as well as in several galleries for the annual Saguache Arts Walk. Enjoy a stroll around the town to not only see all the different venues and the artists but also to experience all the opportunities offered by the unique shops.

Make it a day to remember by viewing artisans at work, including the local pottery shop creating treasures. Info: 719-849-0240, www.saguachechamber.org

Crestone Energy Fair, Aug. 27-28

The Crestone Energy Fair continues to be a tradition in the San Luis Valley for more than 30 years, bringing innovative ideas in construction, lifestyle, and sustainability to the region. This event continues to be one of the longest-running sustainability fairs in the nation, and in the past has included a weekend of educational presentations, community symposiums, hands-on demonstrations, and guided home tours. Run by committed volunteers, this free event is committed to improving the lives of all attendees by empowering them to learn and experience the necessary skills to use alternative building methodologies and materials in future projects. With a past attendance exceeding 500 people, we are excited to expand the Crestone Energy Fair to a broader online audience, as we are filming and live-streaming the event, pioneered last year due to the covid shutdown. Info: www.crestoneenergyfair.org.

12 Hours of Penitence, TBD, check website

Fun starts at 9 a.m. on Sept. 17 and continues until 4 p.m. Vendors from all over come to exhibit their wares, including the Saguache Sagebrush Quilters. These ladies will be showing their efforts for the year along with offering the chance to win a quilt door prize. Come make a bid on silent auction items, offered as the only annual fundraiser for the Saguache Chamber. Artists will be offering treasures for the eye and the body and soul. In conjunction with this year's event, the Seventh Annual Saguache County Photo Contest will culminate with judging of the entries. Have a seat or get some exercise dancing to live music during the day. Info: www.saguachechamber.org

Adventure

An outdoor paradise

Recreation opportunities

The Valley can't be beat when it comes to breathtaking scenery, wildlife, hiking, camping, climbing and cycling.

Camping, RVing

Abundant campsites have been created in the Rio Grande National Forest and near special attractions in the area. The Great Sand Dunes National Park and Preserve offers sites as well with amenities for RVs, trailers and tents.

To find places to camp in the vast National Rio Grande National Forest call 719-852-5941. For a complete list of campgrounds in the San Luis Valley, visit www.rei.com/campgrounds/area/8012291/san-luis-valley. Directions and other useful information are provided for each site listed.

Hiking

From sheer cliffs to massive piles of boulders and spectacular remnants of Earth's creation, the San Luis Valley is a hiker's paradise.

Among the most spectacular and challenging are the cliffs and formations in Penitente Canyon, the Creede Caldera and Wheeler Geologic Area, both of which are difficult to access. All are popular but come with a cautionary note for even the most experienced climbers.

Penitente Canyon offers numerous hiking routes, ample opportunity for exploration. High on the canyon wall, someone painted a fresco of the Virgin Mary.

An easier, but no less spectacular, climbing area is the La Garita Arch, a wind-carved window in a sheer rock formation. The arch can be accessed via FSR 660. Info: Saguache Ranger District, 719-655-2547. For more hiking trails, check out the San Luis Valley Trail Guide online at www.alamosa.org/san-luis-valley-trail-guide.

Watchable wildlife

Visit the Alamosa and Monte Vista national wildlife refuges, year-round homes to big game, small animals and all sorts of birds, including thousands of Sandhill Cranes, which draw crowds in spring and late summer. Look for Bald Eagles and other raptors. More than 100 species of birds are native to the area. See www.fws.gov/refuge/monte_vista/, also www.fws.gov/refuge/alamosa/ for maps and additional information. Colorado Gators, a private wildlife refuge north of Alamosa, and the Great Sand Dunes preserve also are popular areas for wildlife viewing.

Bicycling

Bike riders of all ages and experience will find adventure in the mountains, with terrain ranging from easy to thigh-burning climbs. The terrain between Del Norte and Summitville is legendary, but so are the bike paths down below.

28422 Hwy. 160, South Fork, CO

Open to the public 7 days a week

Almost every Valley community has special bicycle lanes along the city streets. Experienced bikers can explore the rough roads and shale surfaces beyond the Old Spanish Trail monument east of Del Norte or traverse Penitente Canyon's challenging trails, pedal to La Garita Arch/Witches Canyon or explore the mining roads above Creede. Info: www.mtbproject.com/directory/8012291/san-luis-valley

ATVs and 4-wheelers

Restrictions for ATV and four-wheeling trails are enforced in many parts of the national forests in the Valley. Look for signs and posted areas when exploring the backcountry. The road to Lake Como, the area around the historic Uracca Cemetery with its 19th century cabins and the mining areas in Creede — where hiking is tedious and normal vehicle travel is all but impossible — are all popular four-wheeling spots. Check out the great jeeping and ATV map at www.coloradodirectory.com/maps/atv-san-luis-valley.html.

Fishing

Cutthroat, browns, rainbows, brooks, bass, pike, and salmon, yellow perch — if you're looking for great catches, the Valley has it all.

Fish close to town or far away, by hiking into one of the backcountry's many remote lakes or streams. Float down the Rio Grande with a rod in hand, fly-fish in local streams or cast in a local reservoir — it doesn't get any better than here. Fly-fishing is best in July.

Those looking for stream and creek fishing will find a host of spots in western Rio Grande County, west of Del Norte and north of South Fork to Creede.

The area also is dotted with 80 lakes and reservoirs, many of them remote, others easily accessible. Some 13 lakes and reservoirs are only 20 minutes from the town of South Fork. Among these are:

- Million Reservoir — four acres of water, 8,700 feet elev., rainbow, great sightseeing;
- Big Meadows, — 114 acres of water, 9,200 feet elev., rainbow, brook trout, salmon, German browns, great for kids and seniors, handicap access;
- Beaver Creek Reservoir — 114 acres of water, same 8,850 elev., same amenities as Big Meadows;

- Shaw Lake — 20 acres, 9,850 feet elev., great trolling for cutthroats and brookies, handicap access, boat ramp and restrooms;

- Alberta Park Reservoir — Elevation 10,202, forest and meadows, large trout and brooks;

- Hunters Lake — Eight acres of water, 11,400 elev., fly-fishing good for rainbows, one-half hour hike from car;

- Tucker Ponds — Four acres of water, 9,700 elev., rainbows, great for kids and novices, camping, picnicking, restrooms, handicap access;

- Pass Creek Pond — Good for bait and fly fishing, rainbows, limited parking;

- Three high mountain lakes — Archuleta, Crystal and Crater — are all between 11,300 and 12,700 elevation. Archuleta and Crystal require a four-wheel drive vehicle or involve a difficult hike.

- The Conejos River also is excellent for wild browns and rainbows. Best fishing is in June or July. On the eastern side of the Valley, Sanchez Reservoir and San Luis Lakes have previously experienced extremely low water levels, so it's best to check before making a trek there. (See complete list for all the above at www.southfork.org/fish). For other fishing destinations in the area, visit http://coloradofishing.net/wtf_sw.htm.

Local hardware stores sell fishing licenses, required for those 16 and over. Or purchase online at <https://cpw.state.co.us/buyapply/Pages/Fishing.aspx>.

Boating

For great boating adventures, try Beaver Creek and Big Meadows reservoirs near South Fork, Platoro Reservoir in Conejos County, Smith Reservoir outside of Blanca or Mountain Home Reservoir near Fort Garland.

Valley Curiosities

Colorado Gators Reptile Park

At first glance, the desert area of the San Luis Valley might not be thought of as a place to view alligators, turtles, fish, peacocks, ostriches, geese, ducks and snakes. This is surprisingly not the case. Colorado Gators Reptile Park, located 17 miles north of Alamosa in Mosca along Highway 17, offers a unique Valley attraction.

Colorado Gators is in its 34th year, with 100 baby alligators having been purchased in 1987, and the farm being opened to the public in 1990. Erwin and Lynne Young purchased the 80-acre farm in 1977. The first 100 alligators were bought with the purpose to dispose of dead fish and remains of filleted fish.

The baby alligators grew quickly in the warm geothermal water available in the Valley, and the public became interested in seeing them. The rest has become living history.

Colorado Gators has also now become a sanctuary for exotic pets. Individuals with overgrown alligators and other reptiles such as large pythons, tortoises, iguanas and more drop off the creatures on the farm. The organization works hard to take care of the animals and to also educate the public on the dangers of owning such pets.

More than 200 alligators call the farm their home in 2021. More than 200 species of birds have also been spotted on the park. Within the farm is a greenhouse/fish breeding area that also houses mature bamboo, papyrus and other exotic plants for viewing pleasure. As a visitor walks the park and follows painted alligator footprints, they will no doubt bump into huge tortoises walking the grounds. As they step outside, they'll join turkeys, chickens and other domestic birds and critters.

If you are brave and daring enough, you can learn how to wrestle alligators in one of the ponds and earn a commemorative t-shirt and certificate.

Also if you have ever wanted to see a movie-star, Colorado Gators provides this opportunity. One of the residents is retired Hollywood actor 500-pound Morris. He is best known for starring in Adam Sandler's movie "Happy Gilmore."

The park is open daily from 9 a.m.-6 p.m. during the summer months.

UFO Watchtower

Believer, skeptic or just curious, the UFO Watchtower north of Alamosa is a "must see" for seekers of the unusual.

In a valley where a horse who died almost 50 years ago is on TV from time to time and the night sky is nothing short of amazing, the tower seems to fit in. At its base is a gift shop-museum and vortexes at its eastern foot offer healing and, some believe, a gate to a parallel universe.

Owner Judy Messoline first bought the land as a cow pasture and soon learned that it had another purpose. People were stopping nearby to scan the night sky for evidence of beings from outer space. People have claimed such sightings since the first explorers visited the barren lands.

Psychics who have visited the property have pinpointed the vortexes and countless visitors have left items there for good luck. It's bad karma to take anything, so some items have lain there for years.

Messoline is always a fruitful source of information on aliens and UFOs and the watchtower

Visit the rock garden and take a photo with an alien while at the watchtower. Or schedule an out-of-this-world wedding at the site.

Snippy coming to UFO Watchtower

Snippy, the eerily mutilated horse of the 1960s, will soon be stabled at the UFO Watchtower in the San Luis Valley.

A 3-year-old Appaloosa named Lady became known as "Snippy" after her bizarrely mutilated carcass was discovered about seventeen miles from Alamosa on Sept. 9, 1967.

The anomalous nature of her carcass defied explanation.

But when it was paired with the sightings that had been reported in previous weeks of strange lights in the sky, the conclusion seemed obvious to those in the area.

Snippy the horse became the first documented case of animal mutilation by, it was surmised, alien beings.

In 1968, a local veterinarian boiled off the remaining tissue and organs and, mounted on a platform, rebuilt the skeleton using wires and screws.

For the past six to seven years, UFO Watchtower Judy Messoline has been trying to obtain Snippy's remains. John Heflin, the last man to be in possession of Snippy's skeleton, had tried to sell her on eBay for $50,000 but was unsuccessful. When he died, his widow contacted Messoline and the two reached an agreement on a price.

Snippy is now being reassembled by Jay Young, a local who offered to get her back in condition to where she can be put in a glass case on display. Messoline expects her to be at the UFO Watchtower in the summer of 2022.

"This is where she should be," Messoline says. "This is where she belongs."

The display was expected to be ready sometime in June.

Signs along the road embody the stereotypical "little green men, who point the way to the tower, located 17 miles north of Alamosa and two and one-half miles north of the tiny town of Hooper.

Admission is $5 per person and camping is available. Summer hours are 10 a.m.-5 p.m. seven days a week or call Judy at 719-378-2296, for other arrangements.

Cattails Golf Course

The Cattails Golf Course on the edge of Alamosa offers an 18-hole public course with a 71-par rating. Just north of the Rio Grande, with mountains ranging majestically on either side, the course features fantastic views and challenging play for all skill levels. Well-groomed fairways and greens, the driving range and putting green, cart and club rentals, as well as a full-service, pro line golf shop make the course a terrific golf destination.

Travel north from Main Street on State Avenue, across the bridge, and the Cattails’ entrance will be on the left. Info: 719-589-9515, www.alamosacattails.com

Monte Vista Golf Club

The Monte Vista Golf Club is nestled in the heart of Monte Vista on 40 acres.

The nine-hole course was one of the first 15 courses in the state; it opened in 1928 sporting sand greens. In 1948 the club was incorporated as a not-for-profit corporation and work started to convert the greens to grass.

The course was originally flood irrigated and many of the old dykes are still recognizable. Though the fairways are relatively straight, they are very narrow for today’s standards and are lined with trees of varying maturity.

There is a large driving range, and a quaint pro shop with everything a golfer needs to get on the course is also available.

Tee times are recommended. Membership to the club is easy and affordable.

From downtown Monte Vista, go west on Highway 160 to

Soothing waters

Hot springs and pools

Visitors looking for relaxation may want to bask in one of the Valley's swimming hot spots. Whether looking for soothing waters or for entertainment, there are a few to choose from.

Joyful Journey Hot Springs Spa

Enlighten your senses with rejuvenating waters, relaxing massage therapies and magnificent views of the Sangre De Cristo mountain range at Joyful Journey Hot Springs Spa. Geothermally heated waters are offered in three pools. The 98 degrees Fahrenheit cool pool is perfect for those with low tolerance of hot water but still want to get the benefit of the minerals. The 104 degrees Fahrenheit tower pool is a great middle temperature for soaking, and the 108 degrees Fahrenheit hot pool is an ideal temperature for those with arthritis, joint and muscle issues – with spectacular views of the mountains. The water is a sodium bicarbonate type with significant levels of boron, calcium, lithium and magnesium along with several other beneficial minerals. A variety of therapies are available, along with many massage options.

A variety of accommodations are available; all lodging prices include soaking in the hot springs, continental breakfast, use of bathhouse, robes and towels.

Available are hotel and conference facilities, along with dry RV accommodations and tent camping, as well as rental of tipis and Mongolian yurts. Laundry and shower facilities are also available as are various massage and facial options. Be sure to walk the new labyrinth.

The facility is 50 miles north of Alamosa on Colorado Highway 17. Info: 719-256-4328, www.joyfuljourneyhotsprings.com

Sand Dunes Recreation

Among the favorite Valley swimming spots is Sand Dunes Recreation, known by many locals as the "Hooper Pool." Created when early oil drillers struck hot water, this pool has offered hot water recreation to generations of swimmers.

The pools are fed by geothermally-heated waters, ranging from 98-100 degrees Fahrenheit in the pool to 107 degrees in the spa. Somewhat cooler, the children's pool is shallow and safe for little ones.

Offering scenic views of the Sangre de Cristo Mountains, suits and water toys are available for rent. The Mile Deep Grille offers a full menu and is open for lunch and dinner every day, but Thursday.

Opened in 2017 is a one-of-a-kind soaking area built as an adults-only soaking escape in a 10,000 square foot greenhouse. The new area features three small soaking tubs with varying temperatures, a 10 by 75 foot zero entry pool complete with a water fountain feature, a 10-person sauna, gardens, numerous deck and patio spaces and an on-site libation stop, Steel Box Bar.

Camping, RV and family trailer parking, tent sites and some cabin options are available. Summer pool hours are 10 a.m.-10 p.m., closed Thursdays. Info: 719-378-2807, www.sanddunespool.com

Splashland Hot Springs

Splashland Hot Springs is a family-centered, warm, geothermal-well fed, outdoor swimming pool that has been an important part of Alamosa's history since 1955. Water temperature enters the pool at 104 degrees with the average pool temperatures of 93-96 degrees throughout. It is the largest outdoor swimming pool in the San Luis Valley

The pool complex is newly remodeled with a food court, two 50-foot water slides, picnic areas, barbecue grill and menu, shade cabanas, an ADA accessible pool lift and facilities, warming hut, and four new lap lanes.

They offer swimming lessons, water aerobics and fitness classes; season passes and various punch passes are available. They would love to host family, company or school events, birthday, graduation, reunion or other special occasions.

Group rates are available; call for pricing.

The pool is open seasonally and is located one mile north of Alamosa on Highway 17. Info: 719-589-6258, www.splashlandllc.com

Valley View Hot Springs at the Orient Land Trust

Clothing optional, the pools at this historic facility are heated by geothermal springs gushing out of the terrain high on the Sangre de Cristo Mountain range.

Valley View Hot Springs is a beautiful, historic village that offers a safe and natural place to relax and enjoy low-impact, off-grid enjoyment. Six ponds, a hot tub and a swimming pool are available for guests. Natural rock ponds are filled with warm bubbling water generally range from 93 to 107 degrees. On site are restored, historic mining cabins that are available for rent, along with a sauna and ample hiking opportunities.

The campground is open year-round. Memberships are for sale and ensure admission. Info: 719-256-4315, www.olt.org

Rio Grande Club

South Fork's Rio Grande Club is a world-class golf course featuring 18 holes, with eye-pleasing rock outcroppings and shots across the Rio Grande.

Players enjoy the award-winning combination of sandstone outcroppings, pine, aspen and cottonwood groves. The back nine consists of dramatic elevations, serene Alder Creek and a truly mountain style nine that will seal-the-deal for a return visit.

The clubhouse offers full-service dining at the Timbers Restaurant, which includes a diverse menu that takes Old World tradition, all-natural ingredients and progressive American culinary inspiration to satisfy a wide array of palates.

The Big River Grille is a more casual environment and a great place to enjoy the scenery of the 18th hole and enjoy a drink with friends. Info: 719-873-1995, www.riograndeclubandresort.com

Challenger Golf Course

The 9-hole Challenger Golf Course in Crestone along County Road T is a semi-private course with long holes, laid out at the very foot of the magnificent Sangre de Cristo range, great for golfing with unparalleled views. Due to COVID-19 restrictions the course cannot offer Golf Cart rentals this year and will be adhering to state mask requirements. Protect

With 11,000 years of documented human habitation, the Sangre de Cristo National Heritage Area is a crossroads of the centuries. Here a unique blend of Native American, Hispano and Anglo settlement is reflected in the diversity of the people, art and traditions. The geographic isolation of our high desert valley and the peoples' enduring ties to the land have given rise to a rich cultural heritage and ensured its preservation. The area's fertile cultural landscape is complemented by remarkable natural resources, including the mighty Rio Grande, majestic Rocky Mountain peaks, Great Sand Dunes National Park, National Wildlife Refuges, and the high mountain desert, all of which lend the Sangre de Cristo National Heritage Area an unparalleled beauty that offers a sense of retreat and a powerful source of inspiration for visitors.

Los Caminos Antiguos Scenic & Historic Byway

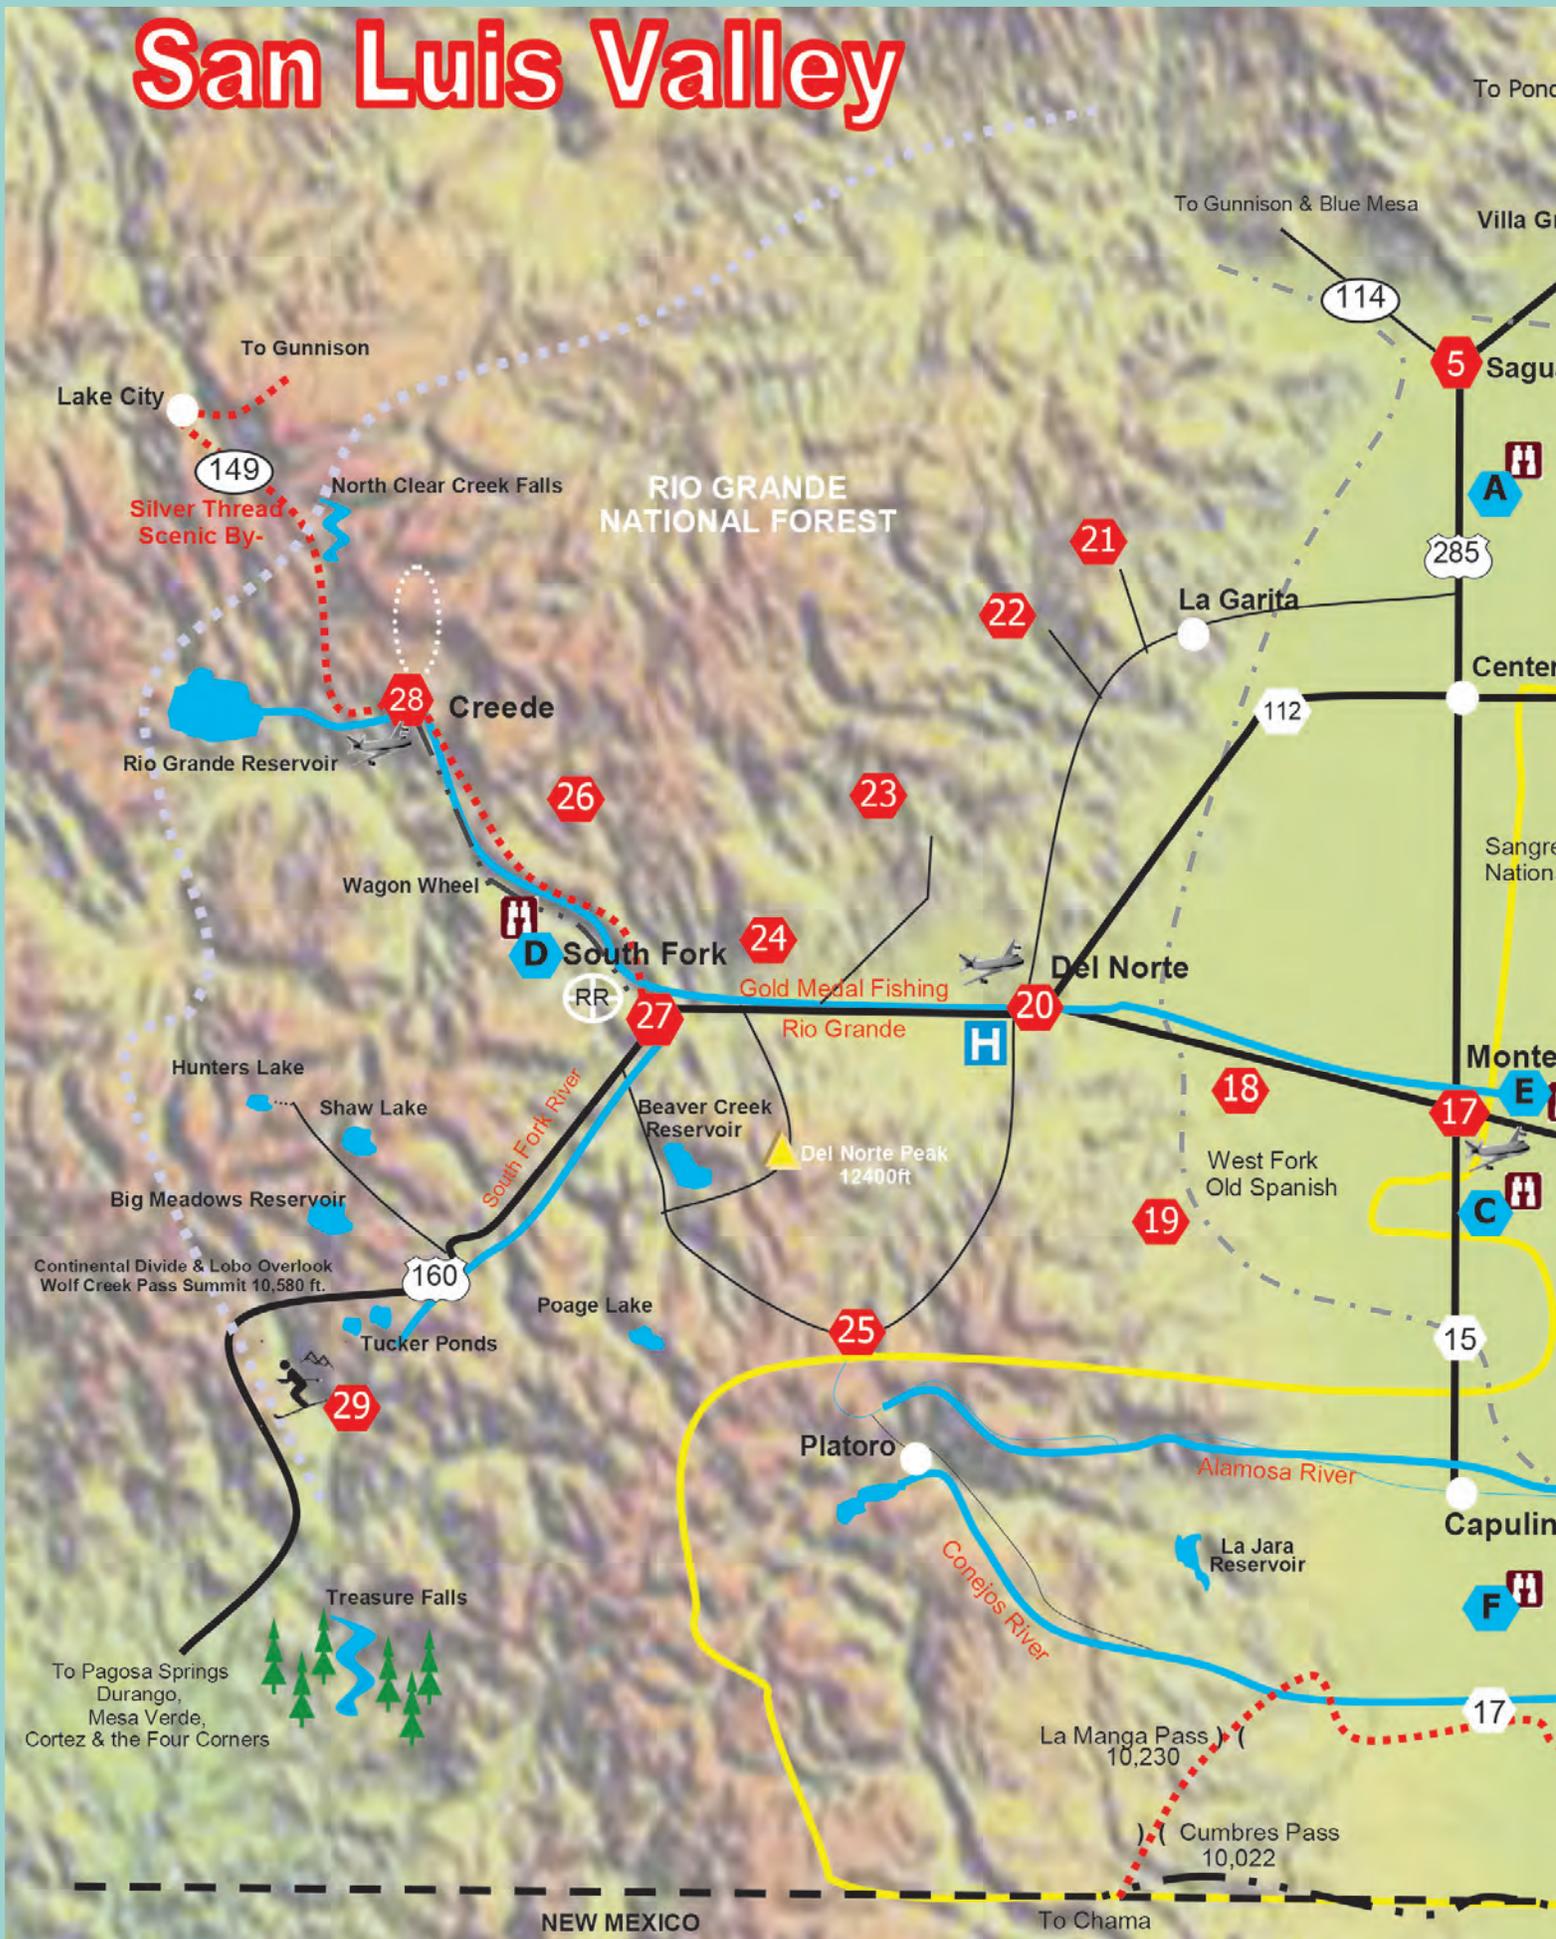

Take a road trip through history on Los Caminos Antiguos Scenic & Historic Byway. The majestic 129 mile route is located in southern central Colorado's beautiful San Luis Valley. Translated as "the way of the ancients", this byway follows trails created by the first hunter-gatherers, Native Tribes, and then Spanish explorers looking for land to raise families and build communities. Experience the same the journey some of the earliest settlers took on horseback and wagons as you wind your way through Colorado's oldest towns.

History

Our Heritage

San Luis Valley history

Rich in beauty and adventure, the San Luis Valley has unique and abundant history, as well. Humans have inhabited and visited the area for more than 12,000 years. Archaeological evidence shows Paleoindians came in near the close of the last Ice Age. Nomads, they hunted large mammals such as bison and mammoths, leaving sites generally located in association with animal kills, butchering sites and small, temporary, camps which were littered with beautiful, deadly, spear points.

These cultures joined the native tribes and lived by hunting and gathering the native plants and animals, while expeditions were sent out from Nueva Hispana, later administered as part of the province of Nuevo Mexico until the area was ceded to the United States in 1848 by the Treaty of Guadalupe Hidalgo after the Mexican-American war. The Province of New Mexico, established in 1598 later dispatched explorers from its capital city of Santa Fe.

In 1779, Don Juan Bautista de Anza traveled through the San Luis Valley and over Poncha Pass in an attempt to crush the Comanches, who threatened the New Mexican settlements. Other explorers entering the area included Don Juan de Oñate, Juan Maria Rivera, Juan Bautista Silva, Zebulon Montgomery Pike, Jacob Fowler, George Frederick Ruxton, John C. Fremont and John Williams Gunnison.

Farming

Drawn by the San Luis Valley's abundant agricultural promise, settlers finally established communities in the 1850s. Farmers developed irrigation systems, as well as traditional communities. The People's Ditch at San Luis is Colorado's earliest adjudicated water right.

Mexican land grants, aimed at filling the area with settlers, remained virtually empty until the area became U.S. territory after 1848. The Sangre de Cristo Grant was opened in 1851 and residents moved in.

The first permanent settlement in Colorado, San Luis de la Culebra, now known as San Luis, was established in 1851 along the Rio Culebra on the Sangre de Cristo Grant. Garcia would've been the first town, but was never incorporated.

San Luis was established in 1849 and named when it got a post office.

Fort Massachusetts, built north of San Luis in 1852 to protect the early settlements, proved unsuitable, leading to the creation of Fort Garland.

Across the vast valley, Hispanic families who left the Santa Fe area founded La Loma de San Jose, near present Del Norte, in 1859, built irrigation ditches and began farming. More farming began in the 1880s near Hooper and large-scale irrigation systems were built near Monte Vista.

Center, believed to be the middle of the Valley, was established in the 1890s, and has continually been a farming community, even today.

Mining

The mining boom began when gold and silver were discovered near Summitville in 1870. Del Norte, one of Colorado's first cities, was established in 1872 as a supply point and gateway to the San Juan mining camps, as well as a busy, wide-open frontier town. The first strike at Creede was in 1889, and the town's rowdy history was memorialized in prose, "It's day all day in the daytime, and there is no night in Creede." Other mining settlements followed.

The Iron Horse

The railroad awakened the sleepy economy, its trains smoking, whistling and belching through the Valley to serve the farmers, ranchers and miners. The native tribes called them "iron horses," while the settlers called them "progress."

Railroads gave birth to Alamosa, Monte Vista, Antonito and San Acacio, which needed a way to haul their abundance out of the Valley to the cities for sale and the area needed a way to attract more people, as well as new industry.

The area's history is evident in nearly every location. Museums celebrate the unique identity of each community, with historic artifacts and displays showing the art, agriculture and religious traditions that have blended to become the unique, welcoming, place that is the San Luis Valley.

Protecting the Valley

Fort Garland

Fort Garland was established in 1858 to protect San Luis Valley settlers from Indian raids. At that time Colorado was still part of New Mexico Territory.

Fort Garland was built to replace Fort Massachusetts, just six miles to the north, because the other fort was vulnerable to attack and the land around it was too swamp-like. Fort Garland was named in honor of Brevet Brigadier General John Garland, who then was the commander for the Dept. of New Mexico.

The fort's 20 adobe buildings could accommodate two companies of 100 men and officers. Various companies of infantrymen, mounted riflemen and volunteers would eventually call the fort home.

The fort even sported its own laundry and laundresses.

Only two forts existed in Colorado when the Civil War broke out in 1861, because at that time the Indians were behaving peaceably. During the Civil War, Fort Garland served as an important enlistment site and rendezvous point for companies of Colorado Volunteers heading south to stop Confederate attempts to take New Mexico in 1861-62. These volunteers helped win the Battle of Glorieta Pass, New Mexico, in late March 1862. The pass is located at the southern tip of the Sangre de Cristo Mountains southeast of Santa Fe. This battle, which has been called the Gettysburg of the West, effectively ended the Civil War in the western territories.

Following the war, Kit Carson took command of the post as a Brigadier General, in recognition of his valor at the Battle of Valverde, also in New Mexico Territory, Carson was well known for his successful work with the Indians and while at Fort Garland was asked to negotiate with the Ute Indians. For a time, Carson's efforts were successful, and the Indians lived in peace with Colorado settlers. He retired for health reasons in 1867.

The Ninth Cavalry was brought to the fort during the gold and silver rush days because the Indians were rebelling against the arrival of so many prospectors searching for their fortunes in the state. In 1876, the fort became home to the Buffalo Soldiers.

The Indian threat was curtailed in 1880, when the Utes were forced by the Army to retire to reservations created for them in southwestern Colorado. Troops at the fort were then reassigned, and by 1883 the fort was abandoned. It was purchased in 1930 by the Colorado Historical Society and since that time it has operated as a military museum.

The fort is open Monday through Saturday, 9 a.m. to 5 p.m.

Pike's Stockade

Located along the north bank of the Conejos River, the site marks the spot where, in 1807, Zebulon Pike raised the American flag over what was then Spanish territory. The site is now owned by History Colorado and a replica of the stockade exists near the location of the original structure. To learn more about Zebulon Pike and Pike's Stockade go to the Pike National Historic Trail Association's website, www.zebulonpike.org/ or www.historycolorado.org/location/pikes-stockade-site.

2022 Cumbres and Toltec schedule to feature new trips

The 2022 Cumbres and Toltec Scenic Railroad kicks off on June 11. The later opening addresses the variable weather on Cumbres Pass and ensures a more pleasant outdoor experience for passengers. The season will run through Oct. 23.

The new 2022 schedule features a mix of offerings, including:

Full Excursion Trips travel by train the full line between Chama, N.M. and Antonito and includes a one-hour bus ride. These trips are called the Antonito All Aboard and the Chama All Aboard and include lunch and motorcoach service.

Half Limited Trips travel half the C&T line from either Chama, N.M. or Antonito to the mid-way point of Osier Station and back. Lunch is included and the trips, are called the Chama Limited or the Antonito Limited, are solely via train, with no bus service.

Short Express Options are perfect for people short on time, families and people who want to “chase the train” as well as ride it. The three-and-a-half hour Cumbres Express departs from Cumbres Pass at 11:10 a.m., heads to Osier for lunch service (included in the price) and returns to Cumbres at 2:45 p.m. On Fridays in July, the Chama Express will depart Chama at 1 p.m. and travel to Cumbres Pass, the highest operational railroad pass in the country and back to Chama by 3:30 p.m. Lunch is not included.

Special Trips are trips that do not run weekly, including the monthly 168 Brunch Special, the 168 Dinner Special, the Geology Train, which will run twice this year and the annual Wildflower (Botany) Train. In addition, there will be a special photography charter and Moonlight Dinner Train Trip only available to members of the Friends of the Cumbres and Toltec. Ticket prices vary depending on the Special Trip. See website for more information.

About the Cumbres and Toltec Scenic Railroad

The Cumbres and Toltec Scenic Railroad follows the original 64-miles of tracks first laid down in 1880, crossing the borders of Colorado and New Mexico 11 times, as it skirts along canyon walls through Toltec Gorge, burrows through tunnels, steams over Cascade Trestle (137-feet above a roaring river), and climbs to the top of 10,015-foot Cumbres Pass, the highest point reached by any steam railroad in North America.

The railroad has been featured in more than 40 motion pictures, including the current number one film on Netflix, “The Harder They Fall” as well as “Indiana Jones and the Last Crusade,” “Hostiles” and more. The railroad also has the country’s largest collection of narrow-gauge locomotives and cars.

Traveling on the train provides the most authentic look at steam railroading in the 1880s. Passengers can move between cars, ride outdoors on a gondola car, listen to a steam whistle echo down a canyon, enjoy mile after mile of aspen and conifer forest, see wildlife such as elk, deer and sometimes even bear from their seats, or visit the bar and snack car — all at a pleasant top speed of 12 mph.

Take a spiritual journey

Historic churches

When the first settlers arrived in the often-inhospitable San Luis Valley, their commitment to remaining likely wavered. Some moved away, while those who remained seem to have agreed that prayer was one answer.

Spaniards arrived with land grants in hand. Most were Catholic and each small community had its own patron saint, but the Presbyterians weren't far behind. Mormons, members of the Church of Jesus Christ of Latter-Day Saints, were ordered to settle here in 1879 and Seventh Day Adventists sunk their roots in Jaroso.

The old Church of Jesus Christ of Latter-Day Saints (Mormon) building at Richfield still stands, but has long been unused, while the church at Jaroso has been turned into a home.

Many are gone, but not forgotten. A burned-out church along the highway west of Antonito still hosts wedding ceremonies and masses in the summer despite its devastation in 1975.

While San Luis is the oldest incorporated settlement in Colorado, the oldest Catholic Parish is in Conejos and the oldest church structure still in use is in San Acacio, southwest of San Luis.

Our Lady of Guadalupe Catholic

Church was the first church, built in 1863, but it burned in 1926 and a new church was dedicated two years later. It included some parts of the first church, but La Capilla de Viejo San Acacio mission was declared the oldest, built by Hispanic settlers between 1853 and 1856.

Parish documents from Our Lady of Guadalupe are stored at St. Augustine Catholic Church at Antonito and the San Acacio mission is part of the same parish.

The second oldest church in Conejos County is San Rafael Presbyterian Church at Mogote west of Antonito. The church was probably built in 1895-97 and is one of the few earliest Spanish-speaking Presbyterian churches in Colorado.

English-speaking believers joined them. Among all the historic places of worship, the Community Church at Blanca was founded in 1902 and met above a community business before becoming able to afford its own building, which is now is more than 100 years old.

In San Rafael at the northeastern edge of Mogote, the Catholic Church is dedicated to San Pedro and San Rafael and parishioners have graced the cross with straps and items of bondage signifying the crucifixion of Christ.

In San Francisco southeast of San Luis, a Penitente morada built around 1908 reflects the religious and governmental support in poor rural areas of predominantly Hispanic populations and the aid societies that formed as a result. Los Hermanos Penitentes, a lay religious and fraternal organization, constructed and used the building as a chapel and meeting hall.

Stations of the Cross Shrine

Strikingly life-like bronze sculptures created by renowned artist Huberto Maestas guide visitors along a recreation of the path trod by Christ during the last journey of His life. The site is an especially popular tourist attraction just before Easter. The shrine was constructed in 1986 and dedicated in 1990. The sculptures were created as an act of love and devotion by the faithful of Sangre de Cristo Catholic Parish at San Luis.

The shrine embodies the vital role of religion in southern communities. Locals come to the shrine throughout the year for prayer, reflection and celebration. Visitors can find the stations along a one-mile walking trail that begins just off Highway 159, 19 miles south of Fort Garland and just west of San Luis. The stations are situated on a bluff above San Luis.

Fifteen art pieces can be found along the trail depicting the 12 stations of His journey, Calvary and Crucifixion. At the top is the shrine known as La Mesa de la Piedad y de la Misericordia

(The Mesa of Piety and Mercy); the grotto features pink sandstone statues of the Virgin Mary and Saint Juan Diego. The mesa top pathway is also lined with many statues of the saints.

As visitors walk up the trail, they are afforded spectacular views of several of Colorado's mountain peaks that tower over 14,000 feet above sea level, while San Luis and the San Luis Valley are spread at their feet. Complete the journey with a visit to the Memorial de los Martires Mexicanos, at the top of journey.

Access to the shrine can be found at the northern portion of San Luis. Info: 719-992-0122, www.sdcparrish.org.

Crestone temples

When miners first built their tent city in the town of Crestone in 1879-80, they would have been thunderstruck to learn that 100 years later, gold fever would be replaced by a rush to spirituality, with Buddhist and Hindu temples dotting the landscape.

In the 1970s-80s, international figures Maurice and Hannah Strong provided land grants to monasteries and religious institutes to build retreat centers and monasteries in the northeastern Saguache County town.

The resulting interfaith mix of groups that congregated in and around Crestone, and continue to flock there, has drawn many followers of different religious traditions to the area. Some have described the scenic atmosphere there as a Shangri-La type ambiance reminiscent of that portrayed in British author James Hilton's classic work Lost Horizon. Some of the religious centers in Crestone open to the public include the Spiritual Life Institute and the Nada Hermitage Retreat Center, a Catholic Carmelite Monastery; the Crestone Mountain Zen; the Haidakhandi Universal Ashram; a replica of the Chartres Cathedral dromenon and the Shumei International Institute.

Creede Repertory Theatre announces cast, gives sneak peek into coming season

By Lyndsie Ferrell

As spring arrives, Creede Repertory Theatre has been preparing the last few weeks for the opening of its 57th season. Artistic Director John DiAntonio, Associate Artistic Director Kate Berry and Marketing Director Bethany Andre sat down with Valley Publishing and gave an update on how things are progressing for the upcoming season.

“The theme of the entire summer is being able to lean into welcoming back our entire audience. Welcoming them back into both of our beloved theatres, and they are going to notice so many changes like new curtains, new lighting and of course some new staff, new line up, new everything so we are really looking forward to welcoming our audiences back and all of the celebration that comes with that because it has been a journey. We hope that they will all come and celebrate with us and get back to live theatre under a roof without being rained on,” said DiAntonio with a laugh.

The theatre began welcoming cast members to the mountain town of Creede this week and will begin rehearsals for the coming season in days to come. Two of the largest plays that have already stolen the spotlight will be the first to open and will run, for the first time, through the entire summer. So even people that come later in the season will have a chance to see a play until Sept. 17.

“The show that opens and goes to rehearsals is ‘Steel Magnolias’ and ‘Always... Patsy Cline.’ ‘Always... Patsy Cline’ will star Emily Van Fleet as Patsy Cline and Caitlin Wise as Louise Seger. We have a four-piece band hired that will be directed by Michael Perlman and Michael has directed some of our most popular shows of all time like ‘Anne Get Your Gun,’ ‘Is He Dead’ and ‘Dear

Jack, Dear Louise.’ Having Caitlin and Emily will be a big draw as long-time company members and Emily will be singing all of Patsy’s hits and Caitlin plays her biggest fan and they befriend each other and remained pen pals until Patsy’s tragic death,” explained DiAntonio. This play will be featured on the Main Stage and will run from May 29 until Sept. 17.

During the same weekend, “Steel Magnolias” opens on May 28, and Associate Artistic Director Berry gave a look at how this play will bring the Southern hospitality out in audiences from day one. Berry will be playing M’Lynn with Christy Brandt and Annie Butler and Education Director Brittini Shambaugh Addison and two new company members, Emily Bosco as Shelby and Teonna Wesley as Truvy Jones. The play will be in the Ruth and will run through Sept. 17.

“What I think is most interesting about the differences between the movie and the play is that Robert Harling had this interesting story about when he was younger he remembered the women in his family chatting in the kitchen and kind of being leaning up against the counter and one of the men would walk in the kitchen and everyone would kind of change and start doing dishes and doing other things and you got this feeling that this was a place where there should be no men. In the play, you do see male characters but the play itself is about six women and it all takes place at a salon. This is a very home away from home safe place for these women. It is the place they come to when they have something major going on, whether it’s wonderful or whether it’s tragic,” Berry said.

Even with those two plays stealing the spotlight, it is only a matter of time before attention is turned to the other diverse and enthralling plays that will make up the 57th season at CRT. It would not be a season at CRT without the added touch of drama and a bucket full of humor that will come with the production of "Native Garden" that opens on June 18. The night will also include the opening night celebration and the unveiling of the annual art poster which has been designed by Peggy Morgan Stenmark an artist out of Crested Butte.

"It's a more intimate play with a small number of company members and tells the story of an older white couple and a younger Hispanic couple that moves next door in the setting that in the suburbs of Washington D.C. and the younger character Pablo, who happens to be a lawyer, happens to notice that the fence dividing the property should be two feet farther on their neighbor's side giving them an additional two feet and the plot just explodes from there. It kind of brings every single hot topic that is going on in the country out between these two characters in a very humorous and heartfelt way," explained DiAntonio. This play will star new company member Matt Zambrano and Christy Brandt as well as Stuart Rider.

On June 25, audiences will be transported back in time to Sherwood Forest and the beloved story of Robin Hood with all the well-loved characters of past stories. This rendition of the beloved story titled, "Sherwood, Adventures of Robin Hood" where the audience will help fill the space and becomes the extra people in Sherwood Forest or citizens.

"It will be very fun and very interactive, and we are making sure it is family-friendly so all ages will be welcome. It will be a lot of fun for all ages," said DiAntonio.

The summer speeds up and shoots off after that with the opening of "Pants on Fire," coming back after a five-year break. "Pants on Fire" is a beloved improv play geared toward younger audiences and will be on stage every Friday beginning at 11 a.m. on July 1. This will be followed by Boomtown every Friday at 9:30 p.m. which is the unrated adult variation of improv and is probably the most popular play CRT produces.

Last but not means least, "The Royale" opens July 23 and is a production that any theatre- or sports-loving enthusiast will not want to miss. This drama will be directed by Kyle Haden whose last play "Hazardous Materials" in 2019 received the Colorado Henry Award.

"We are welcoming three new cast members out of the five company members. It is set in 1905 and Jay Jackson, an African American boxer gets the opportunity to fight the white heavyweight champion of the world and through this, the play explores all of the complexities that come with that leading ultimately to the fight," said DiAntonio. The play will take audiences to the early 1900s era and show the day-to-day struggles of success with a sportsmanship theme running throughout.

The theatre is also celebrating its 20th anniversary of the KID! Show as well as the return of their annual gala event. For more information, a full schedule of plays, dates, and times as well as events, visit www.creederep.org.

Valley grown

Agriculture and ranching

The most important contribution of the early Hispanic families migrating from Mexico and New Mexico in the 1700s and 1800s was the agricultural and ranching skills they carefully honed over two centuries just to survive. While Hispanics were the first settlers to farm in the Valley, they were soon followed by European and Japanese immigrants who helped make the Valley what it is today.

Eventually the San Luis Valley become a major grain and vegetable producing region, and farmers now export agricultural products nationwide. Among these exports are the Valley's main crops — potatoes, alfalfa, barley and lettuce. Many local products find their way to the tables of area restaurants in the Valley, and the Valley is now one of the primary producers of the ancient grain quinoa.

The first potato crops were grown here in 1882. Ninety percent of Colorado's potatoes are grown in the San Luis Valley; the Valley is the fourth largest potato producer in the U.S. Some of the most popular varieties grown locally include: Centennial Russet, Russet Norkotah, Russet Nugget and one red variety, Sangre.

A major hay-producing region, the San Luis Valley hay crop rakes in millions of dollars each year for growers. Alfalfa is not far behind potatoes as the Valley's second most valuable crop. Because of its high nutritional qualities, alfalfa from the Valley is purchased by dairies in northern Colorado and New Mexico.

To discourage weed growth and for disease control purposes, small grains are rotated every two years with potatoes. Barley and wheat are the main crops. The Valley is said to be the world's primary producer of the ancient grain quinoa, a tiny millet-sized grain with many nutritional advantages.

While machinery is used to plant and cultivate crops of head and Romaine lettuce, migrant laborers weed, thin, then harvest the crops. Planting takes place around May 1 and the crop is harvested in stages from mid-July to October.

Carrots also are grown in the Valley and shipped to Western markets.

Newer to the San Luis Valley, hemp, the impotent cousin of the marijuana plant, does not require the acres of pesticides and herbicides farmers traditionally have to pay for. There are benefits to field conditions when potato farmers use hemp as a rotation crop. Another cost savings is the limited water needed to grow hemp.

Cattle empires flourished from 1865 to 1889 in southern Colorado but sheep also were raised throughout the region. Historic cattle operations such as the Zapata and Salazar ranches are reminders of how the early settlers ran working ranches.

Today many ranchers still raise cattle in the Valley, mostly on a small-scale basis. Some cattle producers, however, have recently retired their acreages, owing to production costs and water issues.

Nature

Great Sand Dunes National Park

A place sacred to the Ute and Navajo tribes, first explored 400 years ago by the Spanish, the Great Sand Dunes National Park still radiates that aura of otherworldliness, whether standing atop of a dune, scanning the Sangre de Cristo Mountains in the distance, or hiking its picturesque trails dotted with dainty wildflowers and local fauna.

Grasslands, shrublands and wetlands surround the tallest dunes in North America on three sides, providing countless opportunities for nature lovers and explorers. Set at the base of the magnificent Sangre de Cristo Mountain range, the Great Sand Dunes are home to a wide variety of plants and wildlife, existing in a unique ecosystem preserved for all to enjoy.

The park and preserve encompasses 150,000 acres, including Medano Creek wetlands, Medano Ranch, San Luis Lake State Park and San Luis Lakes State Wildlife Area. Add to this the sand dunes themselves and the possibilities for enjoying the park are endless.

Sandboarding in the dunes

Visitors are permitted to slide, ski, or sled on the tallest dunes in North America wherever vegetation is not visible. Cardboard won't work, but sandboards or snowboards will. Anything slick and flat on the bottom will do the trick but wait till the dunes have had some moisture before trying to ski or sled. Visitors may ski and sled on the snow-covered Dunes in winter as well.

Go 4-wheelin'

High clearance four-wheel drive vehicles can use the Medano Pass four-wheel-drive road, although the road is not suited to small sport utility vehicles. The road is a special treat for visitors during the fall. Caution is urged during the spring when water is high and creek crossing can be hazardous. The road is closed during the winter.

The Oasis store near the park boundary offers four-wheel-drive tours for those without a four-wheel drive vehicle, offered May through October at Alpine Trails.

Medano Lake and Mount Herard trailhead also can be accessed from the Medano Pass four-wheel drive road. Starting at 10,000-foot elevation, the trail ascends upward 2,000 feet, winding through lush meadows and forests, ending at an alpine lake at timberline. Advanced hikers can continue climbing to the Mount Herard summit at 13,297 feet, which affords a spectacular aerial view of the dunes.

General park info

The following facilities and areas are currently OPEN:

Dunes parking area and dunefield access

Medano Pass Primitive Road, including established campsites on a first-come, first-served basis

All trails: Mosca Pass, Montville Nature, Sand Sheet Loop, Wellington Ditch, Dunes Overlook, Sand Ramp, Medano Lake, and Music Pass

All picnic areas: Mosca Creek, Sand Pit, and Castle Creek

Entrance Station, including the collection of entrance fees

Pinon Flats Campground Loop 1 and Loop 2, including restroom facilities

Overnight backcountry access in the National Park, including the dune field and sites along the Sand Ramp Trail

See the stars at the Great Sand Dunes

In May of 2019 the Great Sand Dunes National Park was designated an International Dark Sky Park by the International Dark-Sky Association (IDA). The following is from an IDA Press Release.

Great Sand Dunes joins three other national park sites in Colorado and approximately two dozen national parks around the country that have been designated as International Dark Sky Parks. "It's no surprise that Great Sand Dunes has been building a reputation for good night sky viewing," says Great Sand Dunes Superintendent Pamela Rice, "The dry air, high elevation, and lack of light pollution all make the park an ideal dark-sky destination. We are thrilled with receiving this recognition as an International Dark Sky Park."

The Great Sand Dunes has served as an astronomy destination for decades. "A starlit night at Great Sand Dunes can bring opportunities for wonder, perspective, and a more intimate connection with the natural world than we have in the daytime," says Park Ranger Patrick Myers. "Besides seeing countless stars, our other senses open up and we become aware of the unique sounds of owls and toads, the scent of piñon pines, and the soft feel of polished grains of sand."

Remnants of the past

Rock formations

Creede Caldera/Wheeler Geologic Area

Magma (liquid rock) seeping up into the Creede Caldera (crater) actually pushed it upward creating a dome, one of nature's many rock wonders in the area.

Creede Caldera is one of several smaller calderas (including Bachelors and San Luis), comprising the huge La Garita Caldera, created by an ancient super volcano that spewed 5,000 cubic kilometers of ash some 30 million years ago, scientists estimate. This can be compared to the 1.2 cubic kilometers deposited by Mt. St. Helen's in 1980. It is the largest known eruption of its kind.

Wheeler Geologic Monument or Wheeler Geologic Area lies just outside Creede. The 640 acres of volcanic spires reaching for the sky have inspired many to return again and again to this amazing cumulative mound of solidified, layered and weathered volcanic ash.

Scenic byways

Los Caminos Antiguos

Los Caminos Antiguos ("The Ancient Roads") is the best route to follow through the Valley floor — the northern outpost of 16th century Spanish territorial expansion. Begin the tour in the hub of the San Luis Valley, Alamosa; then to the Great Sand Dunes National Park and Preserve. The sand resting at the base of the Sangre de Cristo mountains is a beautiful, but perplexing site.

Silver Thread Scenic Byway and Bachelor's Loop

For a scenic 75-mile tour of the Valley's San Juan Mountain range, travelers can course the paved byway year-round that winds through both the Rio Grande and Gunnison national forests. Once a toll road and the Barlow and Sanderson stage route, visitors can take advantage of Both the Creede Caldera and the Wheeler area are difficult to access so are lightly traveled. The awesome immensity and antiquity of the area is a consistent draw to visitors looking for a day trip. The Creede Visitors Center can direct tourists to the area. Info: 719-658-2374, www.creede.com

Penitente Canyon

Penitente Canyon was historically a gathering place for the Penitentes of northern New Mexico, a Catholic religious sect.

"Welded tuff rock" found in Penitente is the same type of solidified rock deposits found in the Creede area and issue from the same source — the La Garita super volcano. Penitente's craggy mini-peaks draw climbers from all over the world. Some 60-70 different climbing routes are available and south-facing routes can be accessed year-round. No rock bolting is allowed at the recreation area.

To reach Penitente, take breath-taking overlooks that offer insight into geology and local history.

Old Spanish Trail

Visitors who travel west on Highway 160 between Monte Vista and Del Norte will see an ancient, historic route — the Old Spanish Trail.

The trail was used as a trade route between Santa Fe, N.M. and Los Angeles from 1829 to 1848. Items that were exchanged were woolen textiles from New Mexico for strong mules and horses from California. These items are still a strong part of the culture of the states which the trail runs through. There are three branches of the trail: the Armijo Route, the Main Route and the North Branch.

County Road G (La Garita turnoff) off Highway 285 and go eight miles to the La Garita store. Just past the store, go left (after the pavement ends) on County Road 38. At the one-mile mark, turn right where the main road turns south and take the middle of the three roads. Follow the signs.

La Garita Natural Arch

On the way to Penitente, visitors will find Forest Road 660, just past Old Woman Creek/Canyon, a dirt/gravel road turns north for several miles to the La Garita Natural Arch, another of the area's volcanic wonders. Info: 719-657-3321

Taste Colorado

Ribeye Ranch

Five miles west of Del Norte on U.S. Highway 160, between mile markers 196 and 197, visitors to the Valley will discover a unique southern Colorado icon. The Ribeye Ranch is home to docile elk and reindeer and the headquarters of the nationally known ElkUSA.com and Grande Natural Meats.

Grande Natural sells prime cuts of farm-raised USDA-inspected elk, buffalo, goat, whitetail deer, red deer and fallow deer, wild boar, rabbit, plus antler sets or mounts and many antler dog chews. ElkUSA actually created the current antler dog chew craze in 2005.

Owner Rich Forrest and his late wife built the business from scratch starting 20 years ago and have become the nation's largest elk meat retailer. Together with a charming ranch store, their key to success is the internet, which gives shoppers across the nation access to healthy, all-natural meat alternatives.

The ranch's quaint log cabin outlet store stocks jerky and sausage, plus various frozen red meat items. Discount meats are always available, as are the nationally distributed game meat dog foods and antler dog chews. Moving meat in large quantities, the inventory of all-natural meats is replenished regularly, guaranteeing customers fresh, recently flash-frozen game products. Their prices are very competitive and some of the lowest in the game meat business.

All meats sold by Grande Natural are derived from grass-fed, USDA-inspected deer and elk free from steroids, antibiotics and animal by-products. The buffalo are grain-finished to ensure juicy, tender steaks. Forrest noted, "Now, everyone can enjoy full-flavored elk or deer meat without the wild gamey taste." The products are shipped via UPS to some of the finest restaurants nationwide, including several local establishments.

Additionally, their select meats sell in hundreds of natural grocery stores and chains in an eight-state region. Products are prepared for sale by numerous independent USDA processors, three located in Colorado. Products can be sold to the public in affordable bulk packages ranging from whole animals down to fifth animal bundles of elk and as whole bundles down to one-eighth bundles of buffalo meat. Gift packages and jerky-sausage combos for holiday and special events are also available.

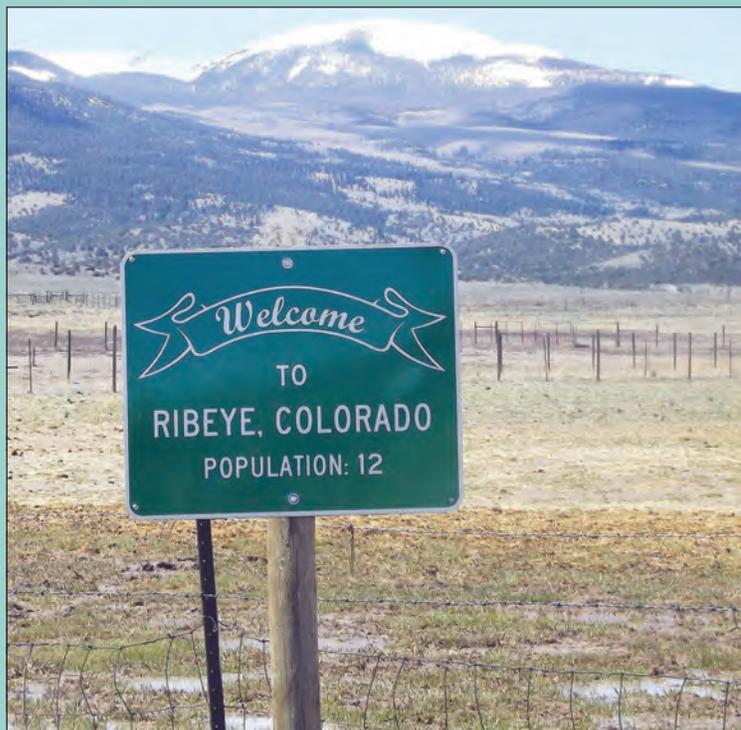

A number of their products have been highlighted in magazines and books, including ForbesLife and The Complete Venison Cookbook. Maxim Magazine's 2010 jerky competition selected Grande Natural Meat's buffalo pepper jerky to be in the top 10 nationwide. Also, in the winter of 2011 Grande Meats was featured in Cooking Wild Magazine with an article titled "Buying Meat Online." This was a great compliment, as many of the other stories featured are some of the largest and most well-known providers in the nation.

Since game meats are heart-healthy, running 90-95 percent lean, it can be assumed that the business will continue to thrive. "Physicians are recommending buffalo and elk for their cardiac patients much more often, and veterinarians prefer the non-allergenic meat for pets." A new, rustic shop-freezer building, packed with game meat products seems to substantiate this optimistic claim, well stocked with hundreds of products.

So, stop at Grande Natural Meats for elk steaks, buffalo burgers, all-natural jerky or sausage, some really great frozen dog food or well-acclaimed antler dog chews. Maybe just stop to view the animals and say "hi," they're betting you want to take something home with you.

Beauty in the backcountry

National forests & wildlife refuges

Those who travel to the Valley to photograph or view wildlife and native plant species have come to the right place. Bring on the cameras and binoculars and enjoy.

Alamosa, Monte Vista and Baca national wildlife refuges

Visitors to the Alamosa National Wildlife Refuge will discover a wide variety of water birds, raptors, songbirds including the endangered Southwest Willow Flycatcher, mule deer, beaver and coyotes. The Rio Grande Nature Trail begins at the visitor center and takes visitors along the river. There is an auto tour route around a wetland. Travel east and south about nine miles to the Bluff Overlook where there is a picnic table, interpretive site, a second hiking trail and excellent views into the Rio Grande valley. The Alamosa Refuge's Visitor Center, open intermittently, is located four miles east of Alamosa on Highway 160 and two miles south on El Rancho Lane. An information kiosk with maps are available there. Info: 719-589-4021

The Monte Vista National Wildlife Refuge boasts many species of waterfowl, American Avocets, White-faced Ibis and Killdeer, plus songbirds, mule deer and muskrats. During spring and fall migrations, 20,000 Sandhill Cranes come thru the San Luis Valley and most of them spend their time on the refuge roosting in the safety of the wetlands at night and foraging in the grain fields during the day. Viewing of cranes and other wildlife can be done safely by using the pullouts along the refuge on Highway 15. To reach the Monte Vista main office travel six miles south of the town of Monte Vista on Highway 15. There is an information kiosk and the start of an auto tour route through the wetlands at the office. Info: www.fws.gov/refuge/monte_vista/

At this time, visitor opportunities on the Baca National Wildlife Refuge are limited to the Visitor Contact Station at the office. From Highway 17 in Moffat, take CRT east for 10.5 miles to the turn right into the office. Info: 719-256-5527

Blanca Wetlands

There are 158 species of shorebirds take refuge at the Blanca Wetlands, birds one would normally expect to find along the seashore. In addition to the birds, visitors also will find amphibians, mammals, fish and insects. Trails are wheelchair accessible so that handicapped individuals also can enjoy birdwatching at the salty marshlands.

The Blanca Wetlands are located 11 miles northeast of Alamosa on County Road 2S. Info: 719-274-8971

Zapata Ranch/Refuge

The 100,000-acre Zapata Ranch next door to the Great Sand Dunes National Park is home to buffalo, bobcats, coyotes and a plethora of bird species, mule deer, elk and horned lizards. Those staying as guests at the ranch can also take advantage of guided horseback tours of the sand dunes. Rare plants and insects native to the area will be of interest and nature lovers will delight in the cactus varieties and wildflowers abundant in the spring.

The ranch is located just off Highway 150 near the Great Sand Dunes National Park in Mosca. Info: 719-378-2356, www.zranch.org

Russell Lakes

To reach Russell Lakes from Saguache, go nine miles south on U.S. 285 to CR R, then 1.5 miles east to the property, spread across 793 luscious acres. The lakes are open from July 16 to Feb. 14. Hunting is permitted for rabbit, dove and waterfowl. The lakes are an excellent choice for wildlife observation.

Restrictions:

- Camping is prohibited except in self-contained units in designated areas.
- Field trials may be authorized in February, March, August and September only.
- Visitors may park only in established parking areas.
- The lakes are closed except as posted and are closed after 1 p.m. during the first waterfowl season. Section 29 is closed during waterfowl season.

National forests

The Rio Grande National Forest on the Valley's west side encompasses 1.86 million acres and is one of the primo wilderness treasures in the state. High up in the San Juan Mountains, the Rio Grande begins its 1,800 mile trek to the Gulf of Mexico, located in the far western part of the forest. The Continental Divide runs for 236 miles along most of the western border of the forest and the 14-ers and lower peaks topping the Sangre de Cristo Mountain range forms the eastern border. The San Luis Valley, one of the largest agricultural alpine valleys in the world, lies between these two ranges.

The Rio Grande National Forest is open, free of charge, for visitor use and enjoyment, although fees may be charged and permits required for some activities and locations. Info: 719-852-5941

BLM land

The Bureau of Land Management's (BLM) purpose is to preserve wildlife and riparian areas, protect ecosystems, manage river resources, supervise permitted grazing and allow for recreational activities on its lands. It encompasses 33 miles of the Rio Grande River banks, from the southern border of the Alamosa National Wildlife Refuge to the Colorado/New Mexico border. The natural area extends out 1/4 mile on either side of the river, totaling over 10,000 acres. Approximately 35 percent is BLM and the remainder is private land.

The BLM prepares public participation plans and involves citizens in implementing these plans for use of the lands. The Rio Grande Natural Area, signed into law by President George W. Bush in 2006, consists of nine members with an interest or responsibility in public land management, including such individuals as conservationists, ranchers, outdoor recreationists, state and local government officials, Tribal officials and academics.

The Rio Grande NAC will consist of nine members with an interest or responsibility for public land management, including such individuals as conservationists, ranchers, outdoor recreationists, state and local government officials, Tribal officials, and academics.

Conquer the mountain

14ers, mountaineering and rock climbing

The mountains rimming the San Luis Valley have long attracted mountaineers and rock climbers. The mountaineers head to the Sangre de Cristo Range on the east side, to test their mettle on its nine 14ers (peaks more than 14,000 feet high). The rock climbers tend to head west to the foothills of the San Juans, where short but challenging rock routes are accessible with a short hike.

Mountaineering in the Sangres

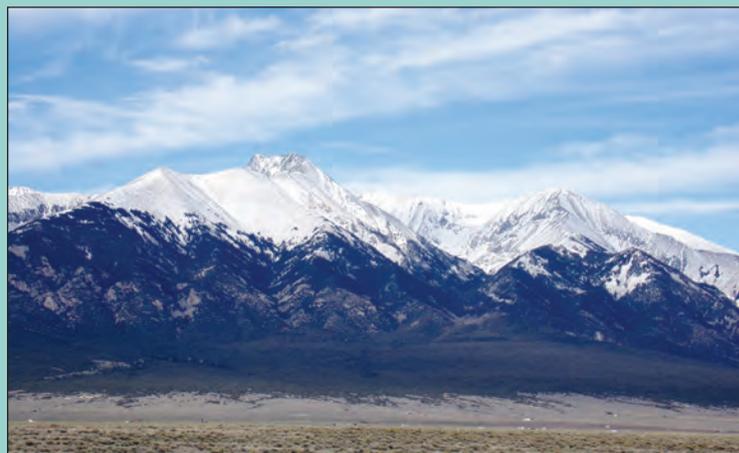

The 14ers of the Sangres occur in two distinct clusters, in the Crestone Group east of Crestone and in the Blanca Group north of Blanca and Fort Garland. The Crestone Group boasts five 14ers on the divide (Challenger Point-14,087'; Kit Carson Mountain-14,171'; Crestone Peak-14,300'; Crestone Needle-14,203'), with Humboldt Peak just east of the divide (14,064'). The Crestone Group are considered the hardest climbs on Colorado's 14ers and were described by early Colorado mountaineers as "unclimbable." Today the standard routes range from scrambling up to the summits (Challenger Pt., Kit Carson Mtn.), to steeper semi-technical climbs (Crestone Pk., Crestone Needle), to difficult technical rock climbs (the Crestone Peak-to-Needle Traverse, and the Prow route on Kit Carson Mtn.) Challenger Point is the most popular destination, having the shortest approach from Crestone and the easiest route.

Five trailheads provide access to the peaks, all reached by county roads from Crestone. See local maps at the information center south of Crestone or at the museum & welcome center in downtown Crestone.

The Blanca Group forms a huge, circular massif shaped like a crown with four distinct high points (Blanca Peak, 14,351'; Ellingwood Point, 14,048'; Mt. Lindsey, 14,048'; Little Bear Peak, 14,043'). Access to the canyons leading to the high peaks is complicated by private land ownership, so the most popular approach is the jeep road up to Como Lake (11,750') on the west side. The Como Lake Road takes off east from CO 150 (road to the Sand Dunes) three miles north of U.S. 160, but is extremely rough so most people park near the bottom and hike up. From a base camp near the lake one can bag multiple peaks in a single, long traverse. The Blanca-Ellingwood traverse is semi-technical but highly exposed. The Little-Bear Blanca traverse is even more difficult, but has been described in 14er guidebooks as "Colorado's most astonishing connecting ridge." Compared to the bare rock slabs of the Crestone Group, on the Blanca Group be prepared for scrambling up loose talus and rock rubble to summits. But don't come too early. In heavy snow years these routes may not open up until July.

If the rugged 14ers seem too daunting, then consider some of the 13ers that form the spine of the Sangres. These peaks offer climbs for beginners and intermediates and can be reached from range-front trailheads along the range from Valley View Hot Springs to Great Sand Dunes NP. For example, in just the 16 mile-long stretch of mountains centered on the Crestone Group there are 35 13ers! These range from the "almost a 14er" Columbia Point (aka Kat Carson) at 13,980', down to 10 unnamed peaks between 13,005' to 13,270' elevation.

Rock climbing in the San Juan foothills

Penitente Canyon, located west of La Garita on BLM land, has become a destination for roped technical climbing on vertical walls of hard, welded volcanic tuff. More than 50 routes have been put up, many protected by bolts. But the easiest routes are 5.8 and most are 5.10 and higher, so be prepared. BLM permits fee camping with individual and group sites, so your crew of free-climbers can set up a base camp there and explore the canyon at leisure. For non-climbers, watching an ascent party can give you a flavor of the mechanics of climbing; the hardware, the rock, and the comradery of the rope.

Where creativity flows

Art in the San Luis Valley

The San Luis Valley is a prime location for any artist that has a need for solitude, a chance to step away and be inspired every day. Many of the area's cities and towns display artful reminders of the inspiration that can be found all over the Valley.

Amazing mountain views and scenery that varies from the desert-like sand dunes to wetlands and the Rio Grande River have inspired works in paint, sketch, ceramic, sculpture, fiber and more. Nearly every Valley town hosts a gallery or shop that features fine art from more than 500 artists living in the area.

In between the peaks of the San Juan and Sangre de Cristo Mountain ranges are more than a dozen art galleries and hundreds of individual artists.

In Antonito, the town's magnificent Silo Park has murals telling the story of the Conejos County's founding and development; down the road a lone silo is graced with a mural of the sacred cranes of the Valley; a warehouse tells the story of the sheep industry just outside of La Jara, and a family of metal sculpture whooping cranes sit along a field.

San Luis tells a story all its own in murals and public art, the story of the past and present.

Monte Vista is adorned with cranes in schoolyards and parks, which showcase the story of the bird. This year, local artists participated in the "Swoop of the Cranes" project. Light posts around Monte Vista have metal Sandhill Cranes decorated by a variety of local artists both to celebrate the famous bird, which migrates through Monte Vista in the spring and fall. Viewers can scan QR codes on the back of the cranes to vote for your favorites.

Alamosa has several art galleries chock full of masterpieces. Several of the area's artists display their works of art in shop windows along Main Street, inviting curious shoppers inside for a splendid peak.

Nature and history is shown in the public art around Del Norte, including the huge elk that sits atop a bluff just outside of town.

Historic Creede presents numerous opportunities for viewing art and plenty of galleries sure to help you find that piece of art to make your home complete.

Saguache County, the Town of Saguache and the Town of Crestone are also home to numerous unique art galleries, from the abstract to those using the open skies and beautiful mountain views as inspiration.

Altitude sickness

When planning a trip to the San Luis Valley, keep in mind that much of the area sits above 7,800 ft.

Symptoms of high altitude sickness include headache, lightheadedness, weakness, trouble sleeping and an upset stomach. These most often pass as your body adjusts. If you have confusion and difficulty breathing, even while resting, consult a doctor immediately.

Severe high altitude sickness can be treated with doctor prescribed medications.

A simple way to prevent altitude sickness is to take traveling to a higher altitude slowly, rest often and drink plenty of water.

Those with certain lung and heart problems are encouraged to consult their physician before visiting the Valley.
